To the Editor:

Dear Sir,

THE PODIATRY SPORTS MEDICINE GROUP

We are State Registered Chiropodists and Podiatrists, who are very interested in sports medicine and all its aspects (treating and participating). You may be aware that there are non State Registered Chiropodists practising, who are making their services available at sports events. We are greatly concerned with the maintenance of treatment standards.

We feel it is only fair that athletes are treated by practitioners with a recognised state qualification (i.e. that they are state registered). We consider this to be very important to the well-being and continued performance of the sports person.

We have drawn up our policy document, explaining what we consider to be minimum standards in the planning of any sports event. We would be glad to be approached and involved at the consultative stage, in the organisation of any meeting and offer any information and advice we can.

Yours sincerely,

H. SWINDLEY

We shall include this policy document in the December issue of the Journal – Editor.
